Friday, August 1. 1707.

London, August 1.

In our former Papers some Account has been given of the Proceedings of the Diet of the Malecontent Hungarians at Onod. The Imperial Court were thoroughly apprehensive that that Diet would take very vigorous Resolutions, and therefore the following monitory Declaration of his Imperial Majesty was publish'd before their Meeting.

JOSEPH, by the Grace of God, elected Emperour of the Romans, always August, King of Germany, Hungary, Bohemia, Dalmatia, Croatia, Sclavonia, &c. Archduke of Austria; Duke of Burgundy, Brabant, Styria, Carinthia, Carniola; Marquis of Moravia; Count of Hapsburg, Tyrol and Gorice. To all and every the Reverend, Honourable, Venerable, Magnificent, Excellent, Noble, Prudent, and Circumspect, the States of the said Kingdom of Hungary and Territories adjacent.

THO from the many Endeavours used by our Royal and Sollicitous Affection; our gracious Patents to the forementioned States, promising to maintain their Rights, Liberties and Prerogatives; our gracious Declaration upon the setting on Foot the late Treaty of Pacification; and our free offer, then as well as at other times, of a Diet to be called and a subsequent Accommodation of Grievances: Tho' from these evident Demonstrations (we say) of our Royal Affection, Grace, and Clemency, (which have been misconstrued to a sinister Sense, and misapplyed to the seducing and intoxicating of the Vulgar;) we entertained great Hopes that the Minds of our Malecontent Hungarians, would be dispos'd to put an End to the intestine Commotions that now rage among 'em, to reinstate the Kingdom in its former Peace and Tranquility, and to return to a true Sense of their Duty, of the Homage they justly owe, and of the indispensible Obedience to which they are bound both by Divine and Human Laws.

Yet contrary to all Expectation, we find with paternal Grief, that all our good Endeavours are frustrated; to the manifest Injury of our Royal pre-eminence and supreme Authority, as well as Infraction of the Laws and Statutes of the Kingdom. Such is the obstinacy of the Leaders of our Malecontents, that they not only reject our most gracious Offers, slight the wholesome Means of quieting their Country, and will not apply themselves sincerely and effectually to the composing the Troubles of the Kingdom; but, by certain Patents of theirs dat'd at Rosenau, publish'd under the Pretence of some Resolution of a Diet of theirs, on the third Day of February past, and dispers'd even among our faithful Subjects, they have taken upon them to invite our said Subjects to enter into their Confederacy, contrary to all Laws, both Divine and Humane; and to give in their Names accordingly, before the opening of their illegal General Convention, called to meet on the first Day of May next, on the Plain of Onod in the County of Borosd; threatening to punish their Countrymen that shall disobey, as they were pleas'd to term it: by which Menaces they use their utmost Endeavours to make them forswear Allegiance and Fidelity to our Sacred Diadem, in which they have hitherto laudably persisted; and to take up Arms in the Cause of Injustice.

Their summoning the forementioned illegal General Convention gives ground from their past Actions to conjecture, that they design to form new Conspiracies against our Royal Dignity; to foment the intestine Commotions, and excite the poor Hungarian Nation that has so long groan'd under a train of Calamities, to unnatural War and mutual Slaughter: That having cast off all pious regards to their Country, they mean to involve the Kingdom in deeper and more dangerous Difficulties, and Wars; and to bring upon 'em an irreparable Loss, by collecting and exporting the Gold and Silver Coin, and introducing Copper Money under Colour of the publick Necessity, tho' their private Advantage lies at Bottom; and that (while the Ambition of possessing the Principality of Transylvania, ingrosses the Thoughts of some) they study more to gratify their own private Desires, than to promote the Quiet and Peace of the State; tho' by their former Manifestoes they gave out, that it was not a private but a publick Good they contended for.

Now by the constant and uninterrupted Use and Custom of the Kingdom, and the plain Tenor of the positive Laws of the Country, the calling of a General Convention or Diet of the Inhabitants, is the peculiar Prerogative of our Royal Majesty; and all Conventions called by private Authority, and without the Knowledge or gracious Grant of the King, must be deem'd to be Illegal forbidden Conventicles; such as was that at Hassan, which by the Seventeenth Article in the Year One Thousand Five Hundred and Twenty Six, was declared Null.

Likewise all private Leagues and Confederacies, enter'd into by the Subjects, with the Sanction of an Oath or any other Obligation, are at once pernicious to the State, and directly contrary to the Law of the Kingdom, and particularly declared void and null by the Four and Fortieth Article of the Year One Thousand Five Hundred and Nineteen, and again prohibited by the Fortieth Article of the Year One Thousand Five Hundred and Thirty Six.

And as it is evident that no Constitution or Statutes can be valid, unless confirm'd by the Royal Assent; pursuant to the Preamble of the third Decree of King Sigismund, and the eighteenth Article of the Year One Thousand six hundred and thirty five. So it is equally manifest, that the Ordens or Constitutions made in the Convention of Kassaw against those who adher'd to Bocskay, were declar'd invalid by the fourteenth Article of the Pacification of Vienna.

The Authors of these Commotions, and their chief Abettors, are guilty of the blackest Ingratitude; unmindful of their sworn Allegiance and Duty, and acting the part of unnatural Sons of their Country, they have made unworthy Returns to our August Austrian Family, by whose liberal Munificence, both they and their Ancestors were graciously enrich'd with Favours, Lordships, Dignities, and Honours: violating the Faith and Allegiance, by which they can't but own themselves indispensible bound, and that on several accounts, to our Majesty, and consequently to the sacred Crown of the Kingdom, they irreverently insult our Royal Authority; call in question our Royal Right, which we receiv'd from the Almighty; and prosecute an unjust War, to the utter Destriction on of their own Country; ravage and lay in Ashes both Hungary and our adjacent Provinces; sacrilegiously rob the Churches of Christ; plunder the poor innocent People; spare no Condition, Sex or Age; and after a lavish Effusion of Christian Blood, are so far from endeavouring to cleanse their impious hands, that they glory in the Mischiefs they have done.

We therefore continuing our Clemency, do exhort all and every one of our faithful Subjects of the said Kingdom of Hungary, our Lords, Prelates, Barons, Gentlemen, Counties, and Cities, to shun those illegal Patents and vain Threats; and not suffer themselves to be drawn aside from the Faith, Allegiance and Obedience which they owe to God, to our Majesty, and to our sacred Crown; but as they have hitherto Laudably, so for the future to persevere strenuously therin, and diligently and undauntedly discharge all the Duties of faithful Subjects, and true Denizens of their Country.

As for those who have already had the Misfortune to engage in the Confederacy prohibited by the Laws of the Kingdom, we let them know by these Presents that, while it is yet time, while Access to the bosom of our Mercy is open, they may and ought speedily to repent, and absent themselves from the before-mention'd illegal General Convention or any other that may be call'd after that manner, which we hereby declare to be void, invalid and null, both in general and in particular, as infringing our Royal Authority and the Laws of the Kingdom. But as for those who disregard the Justice of God, and the Fidelity they owe to us and our sacred Diadem; whose stubborn and incorrigible Temper prompts them still to adhere with a harden'd Mind to the adverse Party; be it known to 'em that they shall be treated as Rebels, be brought to condign Punishment, and be made to feel the Force and Rigour of our just Arms.

Given at our City of Vienna in Austria, the 12th day of April, 1707. in the 18th Year of our Roman, the 20th of our Hungarian, and the second of our Bohemian Reign.
